BUSINESS MEN'S ASSOCIATION MUCH IN FAVOR OF PROPOSED BOND ISSUE

Committee is Appointed to Promote Sentiment
in Favor of Improvement Plan

TO PREPARE TREE ORDER

Will Act Conjunctively With Council That Big Reduction in Price May be Obtained

With members of council present the Business Men's Association last night at their regular meeting discussed the proposed bond issue and appointed a committee to act conjunctively with council to aid in promoting sentiment and to get petitions from property holders for paving on different streets. It was the consensus of opinion among the members of the association that Charleroi had more need of paved streets and other improvements at the present time than it has for a sewage disposal plant which the Stat asks the community to build.

The members appointed on the committee are: J. K. Johnston, H. J. Booth, A. H. Chandler, C. R. Perigren, R. H. Rush, Walter Byerly, and Dr. J. W. Hunter.

Following a discussion of the shade tree problem, a committee consisting of William Kirk and W. D. Pollock was appointed to assist council in receiving orders for trees to be secured at wholesale rate. A number of property owners have already cut down their Carolina poplars and substituted trees of a different kind, and others will soon follow suit.

J. D. Berryman, J. M. Fleming and William Kirk were appointed a committee to act with committees from borough or civic organizations in founding playgrounds.

A report was made by a committee which had conferred with F. B. Burwell, local manager of the Bell Telephone company, about the reduction of the toll rate to Pittsburgh, and a statement was made that a final report would be made again in about two weeks. The committee looking after the securing of rights-of-way for the continuation of the West Side trolley line, reported progress. By-laws which had been prepared by the by-laws committee passed first reading. Three new members were received.

Robert Eaton, aged 40 years of Donora was sent to jail this morning by Justice of the Peace W. S. Coatsworth of Donora to await the action of the grand jury, charged with a serious offense against Mary Simpson his 7 year old niece. The girl is in a bad condition it is stated but will recover without having to be sent to the hospital as first feared.

Robert Eaton is a plasterer, and from the story told, he boarded with his sister, Mrs. Molly Simpson, a widow. He has not been working steadily and was left occasionally with the child while the mother was away from the house. Yesterday the child complained of not feeling well, and the story came out. Eaton's arrest followed.

ELWANGER IS EXONERATED

Fred Ellwanger, the sole survivor of the Marianna explosion, was relieved of criminal charges against him by the grand jury at Washington yesterday. He was charged with breaking into the Pennsylvania Railroad through its secret service, was the prosecutor. Ellwanger was implicated by Edward McWalters, who was sentenced to the penitentiary some time ago for stealing a horse.

The charges against Vincenzo Ciapparoni for the murder of Giuseppe Suevo, and against Luigi Bomero and Salvatore Gano as accessories, were ignored. Suevo was found dead with a gasb in his stomach beside the railroad tracks near Brownsville March 7, and the three men were arrested on suspicion.

Umberto Sarvadino was indicted for the murder of a fellow countryman at Donora. He fled after committing the crime and has never been apprehended.

John Marco, alias John Marks, was also indicted for murder. He is charged with the killing of Tony Perri at Washington several weeks ago. He was arrested at the time and is now in jail.

CIRCUS ON SATURDAY

Big Aggregation Will Give Two Exhibitions
Tomorrow

PARADE IS BIG FEATURE

The Great Adam Forepaugh and Sells Brothers' circus will arrive in Charleroi during tonight, coming on its four special trains. It will bring the famous wonderful pageant of European stars, million-dollar pageant and wonderful new menagerie that have been seen in all the important cities.

The first section of the mile-long train will reach town some time after midnight. It will bring the commissary department and the men and horses necessary to haul it to the ground and erect the great canvas hotel. Over 3,000 meals will be cooked and served there tomorrow. The second section will bring the menagerie. On the third train will come the parade equipment and the larger portion of the 600 horses, also the canvas. The last train will bring the performers, the business staff and the rest of the equipment. By the time the last train is in breakfast will be ready.

The down town ticket office will be located in Piper's Drug Store and reserved seats and will be on sale there at the same prices charged on the show grounds. Those who wish to avoid the rush around the ticket wagons will find this office a great convenience.

The first event of importance after the unloading and the building of the city of tents will be the parade. It will leave the show "lot" promptly at 10 o'clock and proceed through the main business streets. This parade has been described before. People may go out upon the streets with the assurance that they are going to see the sight of their lives as far as circus pageantry is concerned.

In the afternoon the doors will be open at 1 o'clock. At night the doors will open at 7. The performance will begin an hour later. During the preliminary hour visitors will have an opportunity of looking for the first time upon a real menagerie—not an assortment of old familiar animals

TALK OVER PLAYGROUNDS

School Board Delays Definite Action on Important Civic Matter

Picnic and playgrounds were the main topics of interest discussed and acted upon at the meeting of the school board Thursday night. Dr. T. M. Faddis and D. G. Glunt were named a committee to superintend the work of preparation for the annual school picnic to be held at Eldora Park May 24, although the entire school board will assist. Money secured through entertainments will be devoted to the picnic fund.

The school directors did not take any action on the playgrounds matter, although some members of the board favored donating a sum to help found such an institution.

The exoneration list of the tax collector for 1909 taxes was read and accepted. Exonerations amounting to $111.90 for school and $58.30 for building taxes were made.

Reports from the treasurer and tax collector were ready. The treasurer's report showed receipts for the month ending April 1 of $688.28, and disbursements of $6,910.55 in this being included teachers' salaries for two months. The balance in the treasury is $11,716.52. Tax collector Mathias' report showed collections of 1909 taxes amounting to school and building $429.69 and 1910 taxes school and building $156.60.

President J. M. Hill and Secretary Ira L. Nickeson were authorized to sign the applications of Misses Elizabeth Wyatt, Winifred Martin and Ruth L. Shutt for Normal certificates.

THE GREAT HOLE.

A recent magazine writer calls attention to a condition that exists in this country in regard to the development and conservation of resources, which he characterizes as
"The Great Hole." This is the unsettled and unoccupied land in the Mississippi valley. In this section, surrounded by a fringe of dense population in large cities and towns—St. Louis, Memphis and a host of others smaller cities and centres of population—are to be found millions of acres of arable land capable of the highest state of cultivation and right the doors of the best of markets and transportation facilities. The writer calls this unoccupied land "The Great Hole" because of its resemblance to an engineering feat of trying to fill an immense cavity of space around the edge s, which ceases after a certain stage has been reached, leaving a great hole in the centre.

In "The Great Hole" the writer sees the chance of the unemployed thousands and the non-productive class of the great cities. Because of this "great hole" in that section as well as in every other section of the United States, and the great increase of consumers over producers we have reached an economic stage where the cost of living is crowding the earning capacity of the masses. As a remedy the writer suggests a farm booming movement, in which people from the cities who are fallig backward in the struggle for existence can be brought to the land and assisted in getting a start in farming and gardening. Heretofore the great effort has been to populate the cities and towns. The time has now arrived when the unoccupied land in every community should be made productive. When this is done the cost of living will decrease.

VISIT THE ART GALLERY.

The attention of the people of this community is called to the art exhibit at the Carnegie Art Galleries in Pittsburg. This wonderful display of paintings, which is a feature of the Founders Day Exercises held there recently, will be on exhibition during this month, and is open every day, including Sunday.

This annual display of art is among the best in the country. It varies from year to year, and there have been exhibitions which as representative type of art exhibits have never been excelled anywhere, either in Europe or America. Those who make it a point to attend these exhibits soon learn to appreciate the opportunity and add much to the pleasure of life. The exhibit is free to the people and is well worth a day's visit.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

The men who draw cartoons have a clinch as long as the Mexicans trouble continues and the Legislatures are in session.

With tomorrow show day and no school, the elephants ought to get plenty of water.

Why doesn't some one compose some new proverbs? Some of the old saws are aged enough to be retired on pensions.

A woman speaker claims a male human being under 21 years of age has no business being a messenger boy. It's up to the girls to make good then.

The next pleasant job for the school boards will be the election of teachers.

Even the re-call is being worked to death.

According to the view of a prominent man Col. Roosevelt is forgotten. Ever hear a noise like a dormant volcano? That's the kind Roosevelt is making now.

More detectives are Sherlock Holmes by conceit than by pursuit.

Where J. Pierpont Morgan is, there are also curics.

Dress is no index, quotes an exchange. A man wearing sporty clothes and carrying a cane may be a delinquent subscriber.

New kind of dances for musical comedy shows are being invented every day but they all contain pretty much the same kind of wiggles.

Modern version—Money makes the mayor go.

If the woman is to be blamed for everything, she might just as well be in politics.

The school code makes a fairly interesting topic of conversation where other things have failed.

Emperor William has lost out as being the prime factor of interest, in Germany. Interest now centers in a talking dog.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

The fates are kind to the juvenile population of Charleroi by decreeing that Forepaugh and Sells Bros. circus exhibits here on Saturday. This gives all the school children a chance to be free to watch operations from early morning until late at night.
Notwithstanding advanced ideas of elder people, many of whom still retain a modified belief of the old Puritanical doctrine that all pleasure is sinful, the advent of a circus into a community is a momentous event for the children. Few, except those who never grow old in spirit, can realize the pleasurable anticipations
of childhood as circus day draws nigh, nor the excitement and joys of the entertainment itself when the great day arrives.

It is downright cruelty to debar a child from the pleasures of circus day.
Then it is that their impressionable imaginations are keenest, and the glitter, the spangles, the blare of music, the pageantry and the thrilling scenes and incidents, appeal to the childish nature with all the force of the ideals which artists strive in vain to arouse in the adult masses of the present day. Love of grandeur, display and heroic and daring deeds is an inherent quality of human nature, and down the long ages, from the time the triumphant Roman legions added glitter and pageantry to their achievements, past the days of chivalry in the Middle Ages, and the great military era of the Napoleonic period to the present, it has played an important part in the annals of the human race. There is little in this sordid work-a-day age to inspire heroic thoughts and impulses. Into this vast waste of gray monotony steps the circus for a day and then vanishes. In the adult mind it makes little impression; in the childish imagination it lives forever.

Scottville, Mich.—"I want to tell you how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash have done me. I live on a farm and have worked very hard. I am forty-five years old, and am the mother of thirteen children. Many people think it strange that I am not broken down with hard work and the care of my family, but I tell them of my good friend, your Vegetable Compound, and that there will be no backache and bearing down pains for me if they will take it as I have. I am scarcely ever without it in the house.
"I will say also that I think there is no better medicine to be found for young girls to build them up and make them strong and well. My eldest daughter has taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for painful periods and irregularity, and it has always helped her.
"I am always ready and willing to

he realized what circus day meant to children and let us revel in the ideal to our heart's content," said a middle aged man a day or two ago, when the coming circus was the topic of conversation. "We lived in a small community where the austere ethics of the church fathers created a public standard. To these the circus was an abomination the lure of his Satanic Majesty to trap the unwary, but my father braved all criticisms by going to the circus and taking his children. For this kindly consideration I revere his memory more than for any one thing that can I recall in my childhood days. The child who is kept in on circus day nurtures a grievance that will more often than otherwise become a dangerous personal quality."

LUTHERANS WIN FIRST

The Lutheran team tramped all over the Catholics Thursday evening down at the ball ground. Five innings were an ample sufficiency for the speedy devotees of Luther to pull their first battle in the Church League away from the near champion St. Jerome's outfit; and by the top heavy score of 12 to 6.

The Lutherans batted first. It was a garrison beginning. Hardly had Wertz stepped to the plate until he contracted a hit was followed in rapid succession by Lutherans with timely bingles until four runs were scored. The Catholics made a gallant effort to even things, and captured two runs without any hits, which was going some. Then the Lutherans got three tallies on two nibbles. Next round the Catholics began to look dangerous, but satisfied their ambition with one run on one hit and three stolen bases. In the third session on two swipes the Lutherans made a noise like two runs and the following inning scored thrice on the same number of connections, completing their chasing around bases.

Bringing the score up to five the boys of St. Jerome's tallied two in the fourth on as many bingles and halved things with the Lutherans by gaining ground one step in the next round.

WALKER HEIRS TO ASK FOR MANDAMUS

Counsel for the heirs of the late S.
G. Walker, who went on a $5,000 bond for F. W. Ward, who was sentenced for being implicated in the closing of the Bank of Coal Centre, and who ran away after the sentence was imposed and was finally captured and placed in the penitentiary, will go into court and ask for a mandamus compelling Controller John H. Moffitt to return them the $5,000 less the expenses of the capture of Ward. Court ordered this money returned in an opinion handed down on April 18, but the county controller refused to give the money on the grounds that the order was not sufficient.

The controller holds that as controller he cannot pay this money out of the treasury after it had been placed there upon forfeiture of the bond and that it is too late to lift the forfeiture by a court order. He holds that the county commissioners were responsible for collection on the bond and for the deposit of the money in the treasury and when this was done the money became county funds. If the view of the court is correct he says the bondsmen could seek to recover months and years after a forfeiture and the county controller would never be able to tell how much of the money in the treasury really belonged to the county.

As that is part of his duty he wishes the matter made clear.
Feel Sure of Date.
The committee appointed at Washington to secure Rev. Billy Sunday to conduct a revival at the county seat reports that they can likely secure a date in the spring or fall of next year.

Genuine Sardines.
Genuine sardines are the young of the pilchard. Their name comes from the fact that they are most numerous off the coast of Sardinia. They swim in the spring in shoals containing millions—fish shaped shoals ten miles long and a half mile wide. The sardines are netted and taken at once to the shore. There they are washed, scraped and sprinkled with salt. The salt is soon removed, the heads and gills cut off and there is another washing. Then, on beds of green brush, the fish are dried in the sun. Next they are boiled in olive oil till cooked thoroughly. The packers—women always—take them now and pack them in the tin boxes we all know, filling up each box with boiling oil, fitting on the lid and making the box air tight by soldering the joints together with a jet of hot steam. Sardines are more or less perfect according as they are prepared more or less immediately after their capture and according as the oil they are packed in is more or less pure.

The Young French Girl.
A young French girl enters the theater with her father. She takes her seat directly in front of the privileged American girls "finishing" their education. Her untouched flowerlike face is alight with anticipated pleasure, with a soft vividness of intelligence that could never be cursed with the word "brassy." Her hair is bound with a little old fashioned snood and tiny buckle; a strangely simple evening dress covers the exquisite ardor of her slender body. Quickly four faces, the faces of the overindulged the overprecocious, the overathletic and the overdressed, turn to study her. There is something to learn in this little French maid, whose eyes never meet a man's, who is never allowed to walk alone on the street, whose unconscious grace envelops her like a veil, who is sheltered like a delicate bird, yet trained to the utmost energy, reserve, accomplishment and usefulness.—Atlantic.

AFRAID OF MOONLIGHT.

The Reason Porto Ricans Carry Umbrellas at Night.

"The majority of Porto Ricans have instilled in them from earliest infancy a superstitious dread of the full moon's rays," said a business man who has just returned from that country.

"It is a curious sight to the American visitor to note men and women going along the streets and highways of the island with umbrellas raised over their heads in the lone watches of the night, and the more brilliantly the moon is shining the greater will be the number of people who are thus protecting themselves from her beams. Out in the sequestered rural districts a gay mounted cavalier will be met at midnight, his bridle rein in one hand and an upraised umbrella in the other. It looks weird and also ridiculous, but the natives do it for a peculiar reason. They are possessed of the conviction that Luna's full light striking upon mortals is almost sure to make them mentally unsound—that is to say, in nates—and that is why they interpose a shield between them and her dazzling brightness.

"To sleep where the moon could shine full upon one is, in the view of a Porto Rican, to tempt fate, and it would be a daring one who could be hired to do it for any consideration."—Baltimore American.

STRENUOUS LIVING.

A Long Day in the Life of an English Lady in 1791.

As for industrious idleness, which is held to blame for the wrecking of our nervous systems, it was not unknown to an earlier generation. Mme. de Brun assures us that in her youth pleasure loving people would leave Brussels early in the morning, travel all day to Paris to hear the opera and travel all night home. "That," she observes—as well she may—"was considered being fond of the opera."

A paragraph in one of Horace Walpole's letters gives us the record of a day and a night in the life of an English lady—sixteen hours of "strain" which would put New York to the blush. "I heard the Duchess of Gordon's journal of last Monday," he writes to Miss Berry in the spring of 1791. "She first went to hear Handel's music in the abbey; she then clambered over the benches and went to Hastings' trial in the hall, after dinner to the play, then to Lady Lucan's assembly, after that to Ranelagh and return

A Pretty Poor Portrait.
A Chinaman of very high rank had his portrait painted, and when it was finished the painter requested him to inquire of the passersby what they thought of it. The other agreed and asked the first comer:
"Do you think this portrait like?"
"The hat is extremely like," replied the critic.

The subject of the portrait asked a similar question of a second stranger, who answered that the clothes seemed to be exactly reproduced. He was about to interrogate a third when the painter stopped him and said impatiently:
"The resemblance of the hat and clothes is of no importance. Ask this gentleman what he thinks of the face."

On being asked this question the stranger hesitated a very long time, but at last he replied:
"The beard and hair are first rate."

London as It Was.
Haydn's "Dictionary of Dates" makes the statement that the old name of the city of London was written Lynden or Lyndin, meaning "the city on the lake." An old tradition gives us to understand that London was founded by Brutus, a descendant of Aeneas, and called New Troy or Troy avant until the time of Lud, who surrounded the town with walls and named it Cae-Lud, or Lud's Town. This latter is probably the correct version of the story, if for no other reason because it is an easy matter to detect a similarity between the expression Lud's Town and London. It is claimed by some writers that there was a city on the same spot 1,101 years B. C., and it is known that the Romans founded a city there called Londinium A. D. 61.

Real Modesty.
"An actor should be modest, and most actors are," said a prominent one at a luncheon in Pittsburgh. "But I know a young actor who at the beginning of his career carried modesty almost too far."
"This young man inserted in all the dramatic papers a want advertisement that said:
"Engagement wanted—small part, such as dead body or outside abouts preferred."

It is a great evil as well as a misfortune to be unable to utter a promise and decided so.—Simmons.

HONORED THE MONKEY.

Origin of the Coat of Arms of the Earl of Leinster.

Most of the wild animals have a place in heraldry, and many strange and impossible creatures, such as griffins, dragons and unicorns, have been invented as emblems of daring and valor. But the monkey and the monkey have not been so used, except in one instance, where the monkey has been admitted to the ranks of titled nobility. The story of this adoption is told by Mr. Curtis in his book "One Irish Summer."

On the Leinster coat of arms are three monkeys standing with plain collar and chained; motto, "Crom-a-hoo," "To Victory." This is the only coat of arms, I am told, that has ever borne a monkey in the design. It was adopted by John Fitzthomas Fitzgerald in 1316 for romantic reasons.

While this Earl of Leinster was an infant he was in the castle of Woodstock, which is now owned by the Duke of Marlborough. The castle caught fire, in the confusion the child was forgotten, and when the family and servants remembered him and started a search they found the nursery in ruins. But on one of the towers was a gigantic ape, a pet of the family, carefully holding the young earl in his arms. The animal, with extraordinary intelligence, had crawled through the smoke, rescued the baby and carried it to the top of the tower.

When the earl had grown to manhood he discarded the family coat of arms and adopted the monkeys for his crest, and they have been retained to this day. Wherever you find the tomb of a Fitzgerald you will see the monkeys at the feet of the effigy or under the inscription.

SPENDTHRIFT ISABELLA.

A Sight That Checked Her Royal Extravagance For Awhile.

We are accustomed to think that the day is long past when a sovereign could oppress and offend a whole kingdom by personal extravagance. But the late Isabella of Spain belonged in spirit to the sixteenth century. An incident of her reckless career—which ended in the loss of the throne—is noted in Munsey's Magazine.

She spent money, pouring it out like water, at a time when the treasury was nearly bankrupt and when the proverb "Poor as a Spaniard" was far too true. All her best advisers urged her to practice economy. Very few of them succeeded, and these only for a short time.

A certain chamberlain of hers once hit upon a plan to make her realize how enormous were the sums that she was spending. Passing through the hall of the palace, she was surprised to see a vast heap of silver pieces, resembling the contents of a great bin of wheat, but piled up in the middle of the floor. The queen summoned her chamberlain.

"What is the meaning of all this money?" she demanded of him.

"Oh," he replied, with a low bow, "this is merely the amount which I have brought out to pay the bill of your majesty's glove-maker."

The queen colored and then laughed, and for several months she was less extravagant in her expenditures for clothes.

E Pluribus Unum.

The country is indebted to John Adams for its national motto, with an Englishman of note sharing in the honor. It seems that while Adams was minister to England Sir John Frestwick, an eminent English antiquary, suggested to him a good motto to represent the union of the American colonies. Adams at once was taken with the idea, which he transmitted to Charles Thompson, the secretary of congress, who on June 20, 1782, reported to that body his design for a government seal. In this the Latin legend "E Pluribus Unum" was to be borne on a ribbon held in the beak of an eagle.

Just where Sir John got the idea is not certain, but it is a fact that the motto was in use on the cover of the Gentleman's Magazine, first published in 1730, and it may have struck his fancy by its applicability to the situation then obtaining in America.

New Zealand's Glaciers.

The great size of the glaciers around Mount Cook, in New Zealand, has been often remarked. The Tasman is eighteen miles long; the Murchison ten miles, the Godley eight miles, the Mueller eight miles and the Hooker seven miles. Most of these glaciers have moraines of exceeding roughness, but the approaches to them are not steep, as is usually the case with European glaciers. The southern Alpine snow line is only a little over 7,000 feet. Glacially polished rocks are rare, and in many ways the mountains are singularly different from those of central Europe.

"I was just telling our friend here, Molly, that it was storming on the day of our marriage."

"Surely not, Hiram! The weather was perfectly lovely!"

"Well, well! I don't know how I got so mixed up about it; probably because it's been storming ever since!"

BRILLAT-SAVARIN.

Tribulations of the Famous French Epicure and Jurist.

Brillat-Savarin, the author of "The Physiology of Taste," was the absolute realization of the typical good liver. The French revolution confiscated his property and removed him from his office as civil judge. He fled to Switzerland and then to the United States, where he played a fiddle in a New York theater to gain a living.

His property was afterward returned to him, and he was made a counselor of the supreme court, an office he clung to successfully through changes of empire and kingdom. His "Physiology of Taste" shared the fate of many celebrated books. It was refused by several publishers and eventually was published at the author's expense, but without his name attached to it, as he considered the nature of the work incompatible with his judicial functions.

It was Brillat-Savarin who declared that "the discovery of a new food does more for the happiness of the human race than the discovery of a star."

"Monsieur the counselor," a hostess asked him one day, "which do you prefer, burgundy or bordeaux?"

"Madame," replied the judicial authority, "that is a lawsuit in which I have so much pleasure in taking the evidence that I always postpone judgment."

Hongkong the Luxurious.

Hongkong, with its luxurious hotels, its princely clubs, its rich and industrial banks, housed in splendidly constructed and beautifully designed buildings; its shipyards and graving docks able to care for the largest vessels; its miles of warehouses bursting with wealth; its yellow sailed fleets laden with silks, tea, sugar and precious porcelains; its commerce almost as great as that of New York; its botanical gardens hung amid delightful villas overlooking a harbor that is a city in itself and that floats 10,000 sails; Hongkong, with its wonderful temples of ornate teak roofs, its idols of a hundred sects, its French cathedral, its forts, garrison and naval life, its Happy Valley race course—all at the end of white man's civilization. Supreme from the peak on which it rests, it well bred aloofness it looks askance at sordid Asia, whence it sprung.—W. Aylward in Harper's Magazine.

Committee is Appointed
to Promote Sentiment
in Favor of Improvement Plan

Will Act Conjointly With Council That Big Reduction in Price May be Obtained

With members of council present the Business Men's Association last night at their regular meeting discussed the proposed bond issue and appointed a committee to act conjointly with council to aid in promoting sentiment and to get petitions from property holders for paving on different streets. It was the consensus of opinion among the members of the association that Charleroi had more need of paved streets and other improvements at the present time than it has for a sewage disposal plant which the Stat asks the community to build.

The members appointed on the committee are: J. K. Johnston, H. J. Booth, A. H. Chandler, C. R. Perigren, R. H. Rush, Walter Byerly, and Dr. J. W. Hunter.

Following a discussion of the shade tree problem, a committee consisting of William Kirk and W. D. Pollock was appointed to assist council in receiving orders for trees to be secured at wholesale rate. A number of property owners have already cut down their Carolina poplars and substituted trees of a different kind, and others will soon follow suit.

J. D. Berryman, J. M. Fleming and William Kirk were appointed a committee to act with committees from borough or civic organizations in founding playgrounds.

A report was made by a committee which had conferred with F. B. Burwell, local manager of the Bell Telephone company, about the reduction of the toll rate to Pittsburgh, and a statement was made that a final report would be made again in about two weeks. The committee looking after the securing of rights-of-way for the continuation of the West Side trolley line, reported progress. By-laws which had been prepared by the by-laws committee passed first reading. Three new members were received.

Coatsworth of Donora to await the action of the grand jury, charged with a serious offense against Mary Simpson his 7 year old niece. Robert Eaton is a plasterer, and from the story told, he boarded with his sister, Mrs. Molly Simpson, a widow. Fred Ellwanger, the sole survivor of the Marlboro explosion, was relieved of criminal charges against him by the grand jury at Washington yesterday. He was charged with breaking into the Marlboro and taking off the contents. The Pennsylvania Railroad through its secret service, was the prosecutor. Ellwanger was implicated by Edward McWalters, who was sentenced to the penitentiary some time ago for stealing a horse.

John Marco, alias John Marks, was also indicted for murder. He is charged with the killing of Tony Perri at Washington several weeks ago. He was arrested at the time and is now in jail.

CIRCUS ON SATURDAY

Big Aggregation Will Give Two Exhibitions Tomorrow

PARADE IS BIG FEATURE

The Great Adam Forepaugh and Sells Brothers' circus will arrive in Charleroi during tonight, coming on its four special trains. It will bring the same wonderful company of European stars, million-dollar pageant and wonderful new menagerie that have been seen in all the important cities.

The first section of the mile-long train will reach town some time after midnight. It will bring the commissary department and the men and horses necessary to haul it to the ground and erect the great canvas hotel. Over 3,000 meals will be cooked and served there tomorrow. The second section will bring the menagerie. On the third train will come the parade equipment and the larger portion of the 600 horses, also the canvas. The last train will bring the performers, the business staff and the rest of the equipment. By the time the last train is in breakfast will be ready.

The down town ticket office will be located in Piper's Drug Store and reserved seats and will be on sale there at the same prices charged on the show grounds. Those who wish to avoid the rush around the ticket wagons will find this office a great convenience.

The first event of importance after the unloading and the building of the city of tents will be the parade. It will leave the show "lot" promptly at 10 o'clock and proceed through the main business streets. This parade has been described before. People may go out upon the streets with the assurance that they are going to see the sight of their lives as far as circus pageantry is concerned.

In the afternoon the doors will be open at 1 o'clock. At night the doors will open at 7. The performance will begin an hour later. During the preliminary hour visitors will have an opportunity of looking for the first time upon a real menagerie—not an assortment of old familiar animals

THE GREAT HOLE.

A recent magazine writer calls attention to a condition that exists
in this country in regard to the development and conservation of resources, which he characterizes as
"The Great Hole." This is the un-
settled and unoccupied land in the Mississippi valley. In this section,
surrounded by a fringe of dense
population in large cities and towns—
St. Louis, Memphis and a host of
others smaller cities and centres of
population—are to be found millions
of acres of arable land capable of the
highest state of cultivation and right at the doors of the best of markets and transportation facilities. The
writer calls this unoccupied land "The Great Hole" because of its resemblance to an engineering feat of trying to fill an immense cavity of space
around the edge s, which ceases after
a certain stage has been reached,
leaving a great hole in the centre.
In "The Great Hole" the writer sees
the chance of the unemployed thousands and the non-productive class of
the great cities. Because of this
"great hole" in that section as well as
in every other section of the United States, and the great increase of consumers over producers we have reached an economic stage where the cost
of living is crowding the earning
capacity of the masses. As a remedy
the writer suggests a farm booming
movement, in which people from the cities who are falling backward
in the struggle for existence can be brought to the land and assisted in
getting a start in farming and gardening. Heretofore the great effort
has been to populate the cities and towns. The time has now arrived
when the unoccupied land in every
community should be made productive. When this is done the cost of living will decrease.

The attention of the people of this
community is called to the art exhibit at the Carnegie Art Galleries
in Pittsburg. This wonderful display of paintings, which is a feature
of the Founders Day Exercises held
there recently, will be on exhibition
during this month, and is open
every day, including Sunday.
This annual display of art is among
the best in the country. It varies
from year to year, and there have been exhibitions which as representative type of art exhibits have
never been excelled anywhere, either
in Europe or America. Those who
make it a point to attend these exhibits soon learn to appreciate the
opportunity and add much to the pleasure of life. The exhibit is free to

visit.

The men who draw cartoons have a cinch as long as the Mexicans trouble continues and the Legislatures are in session.

With tomorrow show day and no
school, the elephants ought to get
plenty of water.

Why doesn't some one compose
some new proverbs? Some of the old saws are aged enough to be retired on pensions.

A woman speaker claims a male

boy. It's up to the girls to make good then.

The next pleasant job for the school

PICKED UP IN PASSING

The fates are kind to the juvenila population of Charleroi by decreeing that Forepaugh and Salla Bros. circus exhibits here on Saturday. This
gives all the school children a chance
to be free to watch operations from
early morning until late at night.
Notwithstanding advanced ideas of
elder people, many of whom still
retain a modified belief of the old Puritanical doctrine that all pleasure is sinful, the advent of a circus into a community is a momentous event for the children. Few, except those
who never grow old in spirit, can
realize the pleasurable anticipations
of childhood as circus day draws nigh,
nor the excitement and joys of the
entertainment itself when the great
day arrives.

It is downright cruelty to debar a child from the pleasures of circus day.
Then it is that their impressionable imaginings are keenest, and the glitter, the spangles, the blare of
music, the pageantry and the thrilling
scenes and incidents, appeal to the
childish nature with all the force of
the ideals which artists strive in vain
to arouse in the adult masses of the present day. Love of grandeur, display and heroic and daring deeds is
an inherent quality of human nature,
and down the long ages, from the
time the triumphant Roman legions
added glitter and pageantry to their
achievements, past the days of
chivalry in the Middle Ages, and the
great military era of the Napoleonic
period to the present, it has played
an important part in the annals of the human race. There is little in this
sordid work-a-day age to inspire
heroic thoughts and impulses. Into
this vast waste of gray monotony
steps the circus for a day and then
vanishes. In the adult mind it makes
little impression; in the childish
imagination it lives forever.

OWES HER HEALTH

To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Scottville, Mich.—"I want to tell you how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash have done me.

I live on a farm and have worked very hard. I am forty-five years old, and am the mother of thirteen children.
Many people think it strange that I am not broken down with hard work and the care of my family, but I tell them of my good friend,
your Vegetable Compound, and that there will be no backache and bearing down pains for them if they will take it as I have. I am scarcely ever without it.

"I will say also that I think there is no better medicine to be found for
young girls to build them up and make them strong and well. My eldest daughter has taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for painful periods and irregularity, and it has always helped her.

"I am always ready and willing to speak a good word for the Lydia E.
Pinkham's Remedies. I tell everyone I meet that I owe my health and happiness to these wonderful medicines."
—Mrs. J. G. JOHNSON, Scottville, Mich., R.F.D. 3.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases.

he realized what circus day meant to
children and let us revel in the ideal
to our heart's content," said a middle
aged man a day or two ago, when the
coming circus was the topic of conversation. "We lived in a small
community where the austere ethics
of the church fathers created a public standard. To these the circus
was an abomination—the lure of his Satanic Majesty to trap the unwary,
but my father braved all criticisms
by going to the circus and taking his
children. For this kindly consideration I revere his memory more than for
any one thing that can I recall in my childhood days. The child who is kept in on circus day nurtures a grievance that will more often than
otherwise become a dangerous personal quality."

The Lutheran team tramped all
over the Catholics Thursday evening down at the ball ground. Five
innings were an ample sufficiency for
the speedy devotees of Luther to pull
their first battle in the Church League
away from the near champion St. Jerome's outfit; and by the top heavy
score of 12 to 6.

The Lutherans batted first. It was a garrison beginning. Hardly had Wertz stepped to the plate until he
contracted a hit was followed in
rapid succession by Lutherans with
timely bingles until four runs were
scored. The Catholics made a gallant
effort to even things, and captured
two runs without any hits, which was going some. Then the Lutherans got
three tallies on two nibbles. Next
round the Catholics began to look dangerous, but satisfied their ambition
with one run on one hit and three
stolen bases. In the third session on two swipes the Lutherans made a
noise like two runs and the following
inning scored thrice on the same number of connections, completing their
chasing around bases.

Bringing the score up to five the
boys of St. Jerome's tallied two in the fourth on as many bingles and halved
things with the Lutherans by gaining ground one step in the next round.

WALKER HEIRS TO ASK FOR MANDAMUS

Counsel for the heirs of the late S.
G. Walker, who went on a $5,000
bond for F. W. Ward, who was sentenced for being implicated in the closing of the Bank of Coal Centre,
and who ran away after the sentence
was imposed and was finally captured
and placed in the penitentiary, will
go into court and ask for a mandamus
compelling Controller John H. Moffitt
to return them the $5,000 less the expenses of the capture of Ward.
Court ordered this money returned in an opinion handed down on April 18,
but the county controller refused to give the money on the grounds that
the order was not sufficient.

The controller holds that as controller he cannot pay this money out
of the treasury after it had been
placed there upon forfeiture of the
bond and that it is too late to lift the forfeiture by a court order. He holds
that the county commissioners were
responsible for collection on the bond
and for the deposit of the money in
the treasury and when this was done
the money became county funds. If
the view of the court is correct he
says the bondsmen could seek to recover months and years after a forfeiture and the county controller
would never be able to tell how much
of the money in the treasury really
belonged to the county.

As that is part of his duty he
wishes the matter made clear.

Feel Sure of Date.
The committee appointed at Washington to secure Rev. Billy Sunday to conduct a revival at the county seat
reports that they can likely secure a
date in the spring or fall of next year.

Genuine Sardines.

Genuine sardines are the young of the pilchard. Their name comes from the fact that they are most numerous off the coast of Sardinia. They swim in the spring in shoals containing millions—fish shaped shoals ten miles long and a half mile wide. The sardines are netted and taken at once to the shore. There they are washed, scraped and sprinkled with salt. The salt is soon removed, the heads and gills cut off and there is another washing. Then, on beds of green brush, the fish are dried in the sun. Next they are boiled in olive oil till cooked thoroughly. The packers—women—always take them now and pack them in the tin boxes we all know, filling up each box with boiling oil, fitting on the lid and making the box air tight by soldering the joints together with a jet of hot steam. Sardines are more or less perfect according as they are prepared more or less immediately after their capture and according as the oil they are packed in is more or less pure.

A young French girl enters the theater with her father. She takes her seat directly in front of the privileged American girls "finishing" their education. Her untouched flowerlike face is alight with anticipated pleasure with a soft viridness of intelligence that could never be cured with the word "brassy." Her hair is bound with a little old fashioned snood and tiny buckle; a strangely simple evening dress covers the exquisite ardor of her slender body. Quickly four faces, the faces of the overindulged, the overprotected, the overindulged, the overindulged, turn to study her. There is something to learn in this little French maid, whose eyes never meet a man's, who is never allowed to walk alone on the street, whose unconscious grace envelops her like a veil, who is sheltered like a delicate bird, yet trained to the utmost energy, reserve, accomplishment and usefulness.—Atlantic.

AFRAID OF MOONLIGHT.

The Reason Porto Ricans Carry Umbrellas at Night

"The majority of Porto Ricans have instilled in them from earliest infancy a superstitious dread of the full moon's rays," said a business man who has just returned from that country.

"It is a curious sight to the American visitor to note men and women going along the streets and highways of the island with umbrellas raised over their heads in the long stretches of the night, and the more brilliantly the moon is shining the greater will be the number of people who are thus protecting themselves from her beams. Out in the sequestered rural districts a gay mounted cavalier will be met at mid night, his bridle rein in one hand and an upraised umbrella in the other. It looks weird and also ridiculous, but the natives do it for a peculiar reason. They are possessed of the conviction that Luna's full light striking upon mortals is almost sure to make them mentally unsound—that is to say, lunatics—and that is why they interpose a shield between them and her dazzling brightness.

"To sleep where the moon could shine full upon one is, in the view of a Porto Rican, to tempt fate, and it would be a daring one who could be hired to do it for any consideration."—Baltimore American.

STRENUOUS LIVING.

As for industrious idleness, which is held to blame for the wrecking of our nervous systems, it was not unknown to an earlier generation. Mme. de Bruin assures us that in her youth pleasure loving people would leave Brussels early in the morning, travel all day to Paris to hear the opera and travel all night home. "That," she observes—as well she may—"was considered being fond of the opera."

A paragraph in one of Horace Walpole's letters gives us the record of a day and a night in the life of an English lady—sixteen hours of "strain" which would put New York to the blush. "I heard the Duchess of Gordon's journal of last Monday," he writes to Miss Berry in the spring of 1791. "She first went to hear Handel's music in the abbey; she then clambered over the benches and went to Hastings's trial in the hall, after dinner to the play, then to Lady Lucan's assembly, after that to Ranelagh and return

A Pretty Poor Portrait.

A Chinaman of very high rank had his portrait painted, and when it was finished the painter requested him to inquire of the passersby what they thought of it. The other agreed and asked the first comer:

"Do you think this portrait like?"

"The hat is extremely like," replied the critic.

The subject of the portrait asked a similar question of a second stranger, who answered that the clothes seemed to be exactly reproduced. He was about to interrogate a third when the painter stopped him and said impatiently:

"The resemblance of the hat and clothes is of no importance. Ask this gentleman what he thinks of the face."

On being asked this question the stranger hesitated a very long time, but at last he replied:

"The beard and hair are first rate."

London as It Was.

Haydn's "Dictionary of Dates" makes the statement that the old name of the city of London was written Lynden or Lyndin, meaning "the city on the lake." An old tradition gives us to understand that London was founded by Brutus, a descendant of Aeneas, and called New Troy or Troy avant until the time of Lud, who surrounded the town with walls and named it Caer-Lud, or Lud's Town. This latter is probably the correct version of the story, if for no other reason because it is an easy matter to detect a similarity between the expression Lud's Town and London. It is claimed by some writers that there was a city on the same spot 1,107 years B. C., and it is known that the Romans founded a city there called Londinium A. D. 61.

Real Modesty.

"An actor should be modest, and most actors are," said a prominent one at a luncheon in Pittsburgh. "But I know a young actor who at the beginning of his career carried modesty almost too far."

"This young man inserted in all the dramatic papers a want advertisement that said:

"Engagement wanted—small part, such as dead body or outside shouts preferred."

It is a great evil as well as a misfortune to be unable to utter a prompt and decided no.—Simmons.

HONORED THE MONKEY.

Origin of the Coat of Arms of the Earl of Leinster.

Most of the wild animals have a place in heraldry, and many strange and impossible creatures, such as griffins, dragons and unicorns, have been invented as emblems of daring and valor. But the donkey and the monkey have not been so used, except in one instance, where the monkey has been admitted to the ranks of titled nobility. The story of this adoption is told by Mr. Curtis in his book "One Irish Summer."

On the Leinster coat of arms are three monkeys standing with plain collar and chained; motto, "Crom-a-boo," "To Victory." This is the only coat of arms, I am told, that has ever borne a monkey in the design. It was adopted by John Fitzthomas Fitzgerald in 1816 for romantic reasons.

While this Earl of Leinster was an infant he was in the castle of Woodstock, which is now owned by the Duke of Marlborough. The castle caught fire, in the confusion the child was forgotten, and when the family and servants remembered him and started a search they found the nursery in ruins. But on one of the towers was a gigantic ape, a pet of the family, carefully holding the young earl in his arms. The animal, with extraordinary intelligence, had crawled through the smoke, rescued the baby and carried it to the top of the tower.

When the earl had grown to manhood he discarded the family coat of arms and adopted the monkeys for his crest, and they have been retained to this day. Wherever you find the tomb of a Fitzgerald you will see the monkeys at the feet of the effigy or under the inscription.

SPENDTHRIFT ISABELLA.

A Sight That Checked Her Royal Extravagance For Awhile.

We are accustomed to think that the day is long past when a sovereign could oppress and offend a whole kingdom by personal extravagance. But the late Isabella of Spain belonged in spirit to the sixteenth century. An incident of her reckless career—which ended in the loss of the throne—is noted in Munsey's Magazine.

She spent money, pouring it out like water, at a time when the treasury was nearly bankrupt and when the proverb "Poor as a Spaniard" was far too true. All her best advisers urged her to practice economy. Very few of them succeeded, and these only for a short time.

A certain chamberlain of hers once hit upon a plan to make her realize how enormous were the sums that she was spending. Passing through the hall of the palace, she was surprised to see a vast heap of silver pieces, resembling the contents of a great bin of wheat, but piled up in the middle of the floor. The queen summoned her chamberlain.

"What is the meaning of all this money?" she demanded of him.

"Oh," he replied, with a low bow, "this is merely the amount which I have brought out to pay the bill of your majesty's glove-maker."

The queen colored and then laughed, and for several months she was less extravagant in her expenditures for clothes.

E Pluribus Unum.

The country is indebted to John Adams for its national motto, with an Englishman of note sharing in the honor. It seems that while Adams was minister to England Sir John Prestwick, an eminent English antiquary, suggested to him a good motto to represent the union of the American colonies. Adams at once was taken with the idea, which he transmitted to Charles Thompson, the secretary of congress, who on June 26, 1782, reported to that body his design for a government seal. In this the Latin legend "E Pluribus Unum" was to be borne on a ribbon held in the beak of an eagle.

Just where Sir John got the idea is not certain, but it is a fact that the motto was in use on the cover of the Gentleman's Magazine, first published in 1730, and it may have struck his fancy by its applicability to the situation then obtaining in America.

New Zealand's Glaciers.

The great size of the glaciers around Mount Cook, in New Zealand, has been often remarked. The Tasman is eighteen miles long, the Murchison ten miles, the Godley eight miles, the Mueller eight miles and the Hooker seven miles. Most of these glaciers have moraines of exceeding roughness, but the approaches to them are not steep, as is usually the case with European glaciers. The southern Alpine snow line is only a little over 7,000 feet. Glacially polished rocks are rare, and in many ways the mountains are singularly different from those of central Europe.

"I was just telling our friend here, Molly, that it was storming on the day of our marriage."

"Surely not, Iiram! The weather was perfectly lovely!"

"Well, well! I don't know how I got so mixed up about it; probably because it's been storming ever since!" —Atlanta Constitution.

The Recipe.

Mrs. John—I do wish I had a good recipe for falling hair. John—Most women nowadays just pick it up again and hang it on the back of a chair. —Youngstown Telegram.

THE GREAT ALPINES Coming with The Big Forepaugh and Sells Bros. Circus.

BRILLAT-SAVARIN.

Tribulations of the Famous French Epicure and Jurist.

Brillat-Savarin, the author of "The Physiology of Taste," was the absolute realization of the typical good liver. The French revolution confiscated his property and removed him from his office as civil judge. He fled to Switzerland and then to the United States, where he played a fiddle in a New York theater to gain a living.

His property was afterward returned to him, and he was made a counselor of the supreme court, an office he clung to successfully through changes of empire and kingdom. His "Physiology of Taste" shared the fate of many celebrated books. It was refused by several publishers and eventually was published at the author's expense, but without the name attached to it, as he considered the nature of the work incompatible with his judicial functions.

It was Brillat-Savarin who declared that "the discovery of a new food does more for the happiness of the human race than the discovery of a star."

"fer, burgundy or bordeaux?"

"Madame," replied the judicial authority, "that is a lawsuit in which I have so much pleasure in taking the evidence that I always postpone judgment."

Hongkong the Luxurious.

Hongkong, with its luxurious hotels, its princely clubs, its rich and influential banks, housed in splendidly constructed and beautifully designed buildings; its shipyards and graving docks able to care for the largest vessels; its miles of warehouses bursting with wealth; its yellow sailed fleets laden with silks, tea, sugar and precious porcelains; its commerce almost as great as that of New York; its botanical gardens hung amid delightful villas overlooking a harbor that is a city in itself and that boasts 10,000 sails; Hongkong, with its wonderful temples of granite and steel, its 120 miles of a hundred sects, its French cathedral, its forts, garrison and naval life, its Happy Valley race course—all at the end of white man's civilization. Supreme from the peak on which it rests, in well bred aloofness it looks askance at sordid Asia, whence it sprang.—W. Aylward in Harper's Magazine.
